BONUS LOSES CHAMPION IN DAKOTA RACE

McCumber Tried to Put Soldier Compensation Ahead of Tariff in Senate

MAN AT HOME WON AGAIN

Senator Smoot of Utah Now Will Be Chairman of Senate Finance Committee

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1922, by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—The administration doesn't know whether to be sorry or glad over the outcome of the Republican primaries in North Dakota where Senator McCumber of the finance committee of the senate, leader of the fight for the bonus and one of the general managers of the farm bloc movement, appears to have been beaten by Lynn Frazier, former governor and radical chieftain of the Nonpartisan League.

The question is impersonal for Mr. McCumber himself is widely liked. His political equation, however, excites no great enthusiasm at the executive end of Pennsylvania avenue for Mr. McCumber has shoved the bonus bill forward and otherwise put a crimp in administration plans in the senate. It was with considerable trepidation the announcement of Mr. McCumber's elevation to the chairmanship of the all powerful senate finance committee was received after Mr. Penrose's death.

WORKED FOR BONUS

It is known for instance, that Mr. McCumber wanted to sidetrack the tariff and give the bonus bill right away. In many ways he has been useful to the Republican administration but the favorite for chairman was Reed Smoot of Utah, who will succeed Mr. McCumber because he is next in length of service and takes the chairmanship automatically after March 4 next on the chair of seniority.

SMOOT FOR CHAIRMAN
Naturally the administration will not say much about Mr. McCumber's downfall. He is to be chairman of the senate finance committee for the remainder of this session of congress and the whole of the short session from December to March next. And besides it isn't customary for the administration of Mr. Harding to make comments on primary elections—the president himself has warned the press that he is not participating in primary contests or saying anything about their results.

While the elevation of Reed Smoot will mean the return to the helm of a party of the old school a tried and faithful servant of Republican doctrine and an intimate friend of Mr. Harding, the defeat of Mr. McCumber has aspects entirely apart from the effect on the senate committee chairmanships. Progressives who have insisted that the swing was in their direction as opposed to ultra conservatism, machine politics and stand patism naturally hail the result in North Dakota as a revolt against the existing regime and as a sign of the political evolution inside the Republican party which gave Pinchot a victory in Pennsylvania, Beveridge a triumph in Indiana and Brookhart his success in Iowa.

"RADICAL" IN WASHINGTON

Curiously enough the dissatisfaction which now and then has cropped out over Mr. McCumber's activity either on behalf of things agricultural or the bonus and which was called "radicalism" here in Washington was characterized as "conservative" in North Dakota. The Nonpartisan League didn't support McCumber but gave Frazier its votes. In Washington Mr. McCumber was too radical, in North Dakota he wasn't radical enough.

As for the bonus issue, it is inevitable that opponents will derive comfort from the defeat of one of its chief champions but there is little evidence here at any rate to show that the result would have been different even if Mr. McCumber had opposed the bonus. Mr. McCumber's experience in politics has been a mixed one. He was one of the few Republicans who stood out for the League of Nations till the end. The question of foreign policy was hardly a factor in the present campaign. It was entirely a matter of North Dakota interpretation of domestic issues. As in Iowa so in North Dakota, agricultural conditions have been a source of political danger to the man in office. Mr. Frazier has been in North Dakota almost constantly. Mr. McCumber has been busy in Washington. The man back home won again.

HARDING SIGNS BILL FOR PORT IMPROVEMENT

Washington—President Harding Saturday signed the bill for New York and New Jersey to cooperate for the improvement of the port area.

Coal Men Told Public Interest Must Be Guarded

Coal Mine Operators and Employees Meet in Washington To Discuss Strike

PRESIDENT OPENS PARLEY

Harding Hints at Administration Intervention If Agreement Is Not Reached

Washington—President Harding, in convening the conference of bituminous and anthracite coal operators and mine workers officials at the White House Saturday to devise means of negotiating a settlement of the nation wide coal strike advised both parties to arrive with measurable promptness at an understanding "for your mutual good and the country's common good."

The president, in addressing the gathering, which included about 30 operators and United Mine Workers officials and district president, and Secretaries Hoover, Davis and Fall, declared the present was no time for the "mutual note of the radical" and reminded the conference that "toleration fairness and the spirit of give and take and finally a sense of the larger obligations to the public are essential to successful conference."

HINTS INTERVENTION
Coupled with his appeal and admonition the president uttered what was regarded as a warning when he said that if the operators and miners could not "settle this matter in a frank recognition of the mutuality of your interests then the larger public interest must be asserted in the name of the people where the common good is the first and highest concern."

"You are admonished to arrive at such understanding with measurable promptness among yourselves," the president declared. "If the adjustment cannot be reached by you alone government aid will be available at your joint call. We wish you who best know this way to solution to reach it among yourselves in a manner to command the sanction of American public opinion. Failing in that the servants of the American people will be called to the task in the name of American safety and for the greatest good of all the people."

NATION FACES CRISIS

This warning note from the president after he had described the critical plight facing the nation through a continuation of the present suspension of work which Saturday entered the fourth month was accentuated by the statement of Attorney General Daugherty who after conferring with the president just prior to the convening of the conference said he would not sit in the meeting as the department of justice would not interest itself in the matter for the present.

Another pointed statement in the president's address was:

"Labor has the right, capital has the right and, above all else the American public has the right to be freed from these recurring anxieties (strikes) no matter what the causes are. That freedom must be established."

ELECTRIC ROAD MEN TAKE WAGE BALLOT

Chicago—Train service men on the North Shore electric lines between Chicago and Wisconsin points Saturday were conducting a referendum on proposals submitted by the company involving changes in wages and working conditions, and it was believed that the wage proposals would be rejected by the men.

Approximately 800 men are affected by the proposals and it is expected that the vote will be completed and canvassed Saturday night.

Company officials predicted that there would be little interference with service when the result of the ballot becomes known and that further negotiations will follow.

International officers of the electric railwaymen's union have been in charge of the negotiations and company officials say they have been assured that no precipitate action would be taken.

SURRENDER OF LEADER IS BLOW TO INSURGENTS

Provisional Government of South Ireland Seems Able to Handle Situation

By Associated Press

Dublin—The provisional free state government turned Saturday to the task of clearing out the remaining nests of insurgents, following the fall of the Four Courts, their chief stronghold.

The surrender Saturday morning of more than 60 rebels who had been holding out in the Chapel Street area was hailed as evidence that the morale of the Republicans had been weakened by the yielding of Rory O'Connor and Liam Mellows two of their strongest fighters.

The menace still confronting the government was the 100 rebels who were holding out in the Dublin area. The government was confident that the rebels would be forced to surrender by the end of the week.

NATIONAL TROOPS VICTORIOUS

The proclamation praises the courage, forbearance and devotion to duty displayed by the troops in the course of the battle ending with the reduction of the Four Courts.

More encouraging news was received from the provinces early Saturday including accounts of victories for the national troops in Bunclara and Lethbrunken. The government forces are declared to be in control of the entire Tipperary area.

DAN CUPID BREAKS ALL RECORDS HERE FOR MONTH OF JUNE

The month of June has shattered all records for the number of applications for marriage licenses. The little gentleman with the bow and arrow and his cohort, Father Hymen, have been kept on the go from the very first day of the month of weddings.

Before the month was half over more couples had offered their names to the city warrants than had done so in any full month of the year 1922. The records for the whole month show 86 applications, which is nearly double those of the previous month and nearly 20 more than were filed in the same month of the preceding year. That month 67 couples took the fatal step. The following comparison of the records of the last four months shows that the matrimonial business is on the upward trend:

March, 11; April, 37; May, 44; and June, 86.

Milwaukee—June, "month of roses," proved a stimulant to business at the marriage license counter in Milwaukee courthouse as compared to the preceding months this year. According to Robert F. Krueger, marriage license clerk, 735 licenses were issued during this month. In June 1921, the licenses totaled 765.

Woman Saved From Traffic By Black Man

By Associated Press
New York—Threading the traffic during Fifth Avenue's most crowded hour, a woman was confused and stopped directly in the path of swiftly moving automobiles. Crowds on the sidewalks looked on with horror or turned away from what appeared to be an inevitable fatality, but one man dashed through the vehicles thronging the street, seized the woman by the arm and dragged her back to safety.

Dazed by her sudden and unexpected delivery from death or serious injury, she failed to thank her rescuer. A traffic policeman was more alert. He stopped the man after he had taken a dozen steps and asked his name.

The stranger, who was a negro turned "Are you going to arrest me?" he asked.

"No said the officer. "That was a brave act and I want to report it."

"Just say a black man did it," said the man and turned away.

He was Dr. Robert R. Moton, successor of Booker T. Washington as head of the Tuskegee institute, major in the American army during the war and one of the foremost figures of his race in America.

Union Leaders Defy Conference Called By Board

Railroad Officials Announce That Train Schedules Will Not Be Affected

JEWELL FAILS TO APPEAR

Federal Government Gives Complete Backing to Railroad Labor Board

By Associated Press
Chicago—Thousands of railway shopmen dropped their tools Saturday to join the nationwide strike called by the international presidents of the six shopcraft unions. Daily reports indicated that shop mechanics and their helpers from the New England roads to the western transcontinental lines were generally joining the walk out with about 80,000 already reported to have actually quit work at mid day.

While there was no way of compiling accurate figures which might be all inclusive, dispatches from points scattered from Boston to Kansas City showed that the strike had taken effect in shops on nearly all the important roads of the east and middle west.

Shopmen in the western states were expected to join the movement as the zero hour, 10 o'clock arrived in their territory.

The strike call sanctioning blacksmiths boiler makers, sheet metal workers electrical workers machinists and carmen to stop work at 10 a. m. local time Saturday, was issued Thursday night after a ballot by the 400,000 shop workers had showed, according to union officials, a 96 per cent majority in favor of striking.

Not more than 350,000 mechanics and helpers were actually at work however according to latest government figures, although the unions total membership was allowed to vote, many shopmen being temporarily laid off.

LOWELL FAILS TO APPEAR

Last minute efforts of the United States Railroad labor board to throttle the impending walkout failed Friday when B. M. Jewell head of the shop crafts unions refused to appear at a federal inquiry into the strike call.

Subpoena servers failed to locate him although it was learned he was closeted with his strike committee at a downtown hotel here which lasted until 2 o'clock Saturday morning.

At Buffalo, 8,000 men were reported to have quit by the union leaders of these 800 were said to have deserted the Erie shops now operated by a contractor. The Erie has contended before the labor board that the shop men are no longer railway employees and it was the removal of such employees from the jurisdiction of the board's wage and rules orders that precipitated one of the three questions on which the men struck.

Other reports said 1,800 men left work at New Haven, Conn., principally from the New York, New Haven and Hartford shops. Two thousand men were reported to have left the Central Railroad of New Jersey shops at New York and at Pittsburg. 2,000 shopmen joined the movement mainly from the shops of the B. & O.

WASHINGTON BACKS BOARD

Complete backing for the labor board and its orders, two of which are involved in the present walkout was assured by the administration in Washington although no one would make any definite suggestion on how the government might act to end the strike.

At Topeka, Kan., Gov. Allen took the first remedial steps when he summoned the states three industrial court judges and attorney general Hopkins into conference. Protection will be given all railway employees who remain at work Gov. Allen said.

The strike came peacefully over the entire country with one exception, according to noon reports. A slight striking occurred at Ivy City, Md., when strikers mistook a detail of guards for strike breakers. No one was injured.

As the reports continued to trickle into Chicago, New Orleans reported 2,100 men had joined the walkout. Detroit reported defections of 1920 at the Norfolk and Western shops at Roanoke, Va., 3,500 men were said to have laid down their tools. A half dozen shops on the Wheeling and Lake Erie reported a total walkout of 1,200. The railroad shops at Augusta, Ga., adding 1,000 to the strikers ranks.

Several shops on the Southern Railway reported defections totalling 2,000 and on the roads entering

BROOKHART IS ATTACKED BY HIS OPPONENT

Democratic Senatorial Nominee From Iowa Calls Him 10 Per Cent Candidate

By Associated Press
Sibley, Iowa—Leveling a heavy attack on the radical platform of Smith W. Brookhart, Republican nominee the United States Senator, Clyde L. Herring of Des Moines, Democratic nominee, delivered the opening speech of his campaign before the Osceola county Democratic convention here Saturday afternoon.

The Democratic candidate charged that Col. Brookhart, "a 10 per cent candidate" is attempting to cram his own personal platform down the throats of the Republican convention.

Mr. Herring aligned his Republican opponents with the leaders of the Dakota Nonpartisan League and other factors abhorred by both of the major political parties. "We have the unusual spectacle in Iowa today, of a Republican candidate for the United States Senate who no longer than four months ago was sitting in a conference in Chicago called to discuss the advisability of forming a new party."

Mr. Herring declared, adding that Mr. Brookhart "associated in conference with such men as A. C. Townley of the Nonpartisan League; Morris Hillquit member of the Socialist party and Victor Berger, prominent Socialist."

DAKOTA PRIMARY RESULTS SHOW BIG FRAZIER MAJORITY

McCumber Not Indorsed by State Independent Convention—Watch Other Results

By Associated Press
Largo, N. D.—With the nomination of Gov. F. A. Nestos and Lynn J. Frazier for governor and senator respectively on the Republican ticket definitely assured, interest Saturday was directed to the nomination for other state officers voted on Wednesday's primary.

The probable plurality of Gov. Nestos, Independent, is set in independent sources at from 8,000 to 12,000 and the same sources place the plurality of Frazier Nonpartisan at 4,000 to 6,000 as against the 15,000 lead the League heads claim for the latter.

It is admitted in League quarters that defeat of other independent state officers seeking renomination would only result from very material defections and in available returns on these nominations there has been no evidence of such turnovers.

Senator F. J. McCumber, whose defeat by Frazier had been conceded by his friends, showed unexpected strength in some of the strong League precincts, whereas he ran far behind Nestos in some strong independent districts. McCumber was not endorsed by the independent state convention.

The Fargo Forum, which supported Nestos and other independent candidates, declared the congressional contests in the Republican part resulted in the nomination of all incumbents.

On July 14 the hearings will be as follows: Olive Baker vs. Toy Company of America; Henry Wegner vs. Wausau Iron works; William Mentzel vs. Menasha Printing & Carton company; Gustave Lange vs. Fox River Paper company; Charles Krutz vs. Bergstrom Paper Co.

URGE EMPLOYEES TO REMAIN WITH ROADS

Maintenance employees of Northwestern Railway Co., Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co. and the Soo road received circular letters from officials of their companies Friday advising them to remain loyal to their roads, charging no good ever came from a strike and both employees and employers always suffer thereby. The officials pointed out that the present issue is not between the railroads and their employees, but revolves compliance with the decision of the United States railroad labor board. A strike against this decision is a strike against the government, the officials claim.

NO DELIVERY OF MAILS TUESDAY

There will be no city or rural mail delivery on Tuesday, July 4. Postmaster Gustave Keller announced the general delivery, stamp, registry and money order windows will be open from 8 until 10 o'clock. Only transient mail will be delivered at the general delivery window. On past holidays, some people have been in the habit of asking for city delivery mail at the general delivery window. This is to be done away with Tuesday. The regular collection in the business district will be made in the evening.

WHY ABOLISH WAR AND LEAVE THE RAT?

Rats have been responsible for more untimely deaths among human beings than all the wars of history.

They are the worst animal pests in the world. From their homes among the filth they visit dwellings and storerooms to pollute and destroy human food.

In our country rats and mice each year destroy crops and other property worth $200,000,000. The grain eaten and destroyed by rats and mice on many a farm, if saved, would more than pay all the taxes on the property.

If we are to fight rats and mice on equal terms we must deny them food and hiding places, instead of unconsciously feeding them and building for them fortresses of concealment. If you want to know how, your Government will tell you.

Our Washington Information Bureau will secure for any of our readers the free Government publication devoted to doing away with these filthy disease-carrying pests. To secure a copy merely clip out and mail the coupon below. Enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. Be sure to write your name and address clearly on the lines of the coupon.

Appleton's Greatest Need

Home for Dependents

By E. L. Madison
"My suggestion with respect to Appleton's greatest need is to provide a countywide system for taking care of the poor, the dependents and the abandoned children," says Judge A. M. Spencer. "The only institution we have now is our city poor house, and we must send our indigents and unfortunate to state or denominational institutions, or to boys' or girls' industrial schools."

"Sometimes these people are taken into private homes in the county, but they generally are sent to Milwaukee, Sparta, Green Bay or somewhere else. The county ought to have a place to which they can be sent permanently or until other disposition can be made of their cases."

Judge Spencer says a building ought to be erected on the county asylum grounds and equipped to care for the people who are placed in the hands of the court. The location convenient to Appleton is ideal for the purpose and a contact can be maintained with the inmates and more consideration given their needs.

"Such an institution would be an economy," said the judge. "The county pays board and maintenance for all these people we are sending away and this money could be used at home. The building, if located on the asylum site, could be heated from the same plant, have perhaps the same supervision and assistants and its people could be fed from the products of the county farm."

GAMBLING BANNED AT COUNTY FAIRS

All games of chance have been barred as amusements for county fairs in Wisconsin, according to a ruling by Attorney General Morgan. This was made known by Elmer S. Hall, secretary of state, in a letter to county fair secretaries. The ruling also states that games for which the winning of a prize which tests the skill of the operator are not games of chance. Among the games barred are: Any game or device having a concealed premium; the "Devil's Bowling Alley," a device where the balls are always in motion and the player selects a ball at random and wins a prize according to the number on the ball; the marble roll on a tilted platform and all kinds of spindle games operated with either a draw or a stop, any game where money is a prize.

MAY SETTLE CAR LINE CASE SOON

At another public hearing conducted a few days ago by the state railroad rate commission in Green Bay, officials of that city renewed their petition that the commission take steps to force operation of the Bay Beach Street Car company, of which A. W. Priest is bond owner and chief stockholder. The commission had previously refused petition of the owners to scrap the road when the city of Green Bay had refused to buy the road at their figure.

The owners are now asking an apportionment of the company holdings to be made on a basis of a number of years, such apportionment to consider replacement costs less the depreciation. The valuation claimed by the company is $26,500 and a recent apportionment valued the tracks, franchise and rolling stock at $19,505, it is said.

NEENAH SONGBIRD CLIMBS TO FAME

Lillian Sindahl Makes Triumphant Tour With Chicago Symphony Orchestra

Reports of the success of Miss Lillian May Sindahl, Neenah soprano who studied voice at Lawrence conservatory, with the series of concerts given last spring by the Chicago Symphony orchestra have been very gratifying to the Economics club of Neenah-Menasha whose efforts made her start possible.

Miss Sindahl is known in musical circles as the "Norwegian Nightingale of Wisconsin" and her beautiful voice is rapidly bringing her to the attention of the country's best artists. Though only 22, her clear soprano of bell-like quality shows much warmth and the young woman seems to have taken a strong hold on the art of tone color.

The Neenah songbird recently was graduated from the Chicago College of Music with honors. The graduation exercises were held at Backstone theatre where Miss Sindahl sang with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Her selection was My Noble Knights, from Meyerbeer's Les Huguenots.

In last Sunday's edition of the Milwaukee Journal, under a photograph of the young woman, was published a history of her career.

Birds Cheat Carriers Of Egg Delivery

There are no cobwebs in the mail boxes of the town of Greenville. Indeed not. The martins wouldn't allow that. Where else should they build their nests? The martins know where the mossbacks are to be found if anybody does. If there is anything that annoys them, it is the constant opening and closing of mail box lids. But the martins finally succeeded in finding a patron in whose mail they could lay and hatch undisturbed. All would have been lovely, had not the Appleton rural carrier one day shocked them by bringing a piece of mail. But what was he to do with the nest and eggs? What more could he do than leave a note for the patron saying that he could not collect the eggs for delivery, unless they are securely crated and addressed?

The Standard of Comparison

Why Buick Cushions "Ride Easy"

Buick cushions are comfortable on all roads because of their "double-deck" springs and resilient hair pads. The upper springs, which are light and easy-acting, yield to the slightest road irregularity. The lower springs are larger and stiffer. They come into play on rough country roads, carrying the passenger in comfort over bumps which cause the ordinary seat to "strike bottom".

Between the springs and the French-plaited leather upholstery are two thick, yielding pads of interlaced hair which positively prevent "lumping".

In Buick seat cushions, as in every other part of the car, is built the quality which has made Buick cars the standard of comparison.

WOMAN MAYORS

Mildred Adams writes in the American City of fifteen women mayors in the United States. The towns over which they preside range in size from Rochester, Ohio, with a population of 145, to St. Peter, Minn., where the population is 4,335. The fifteen women mayors are well distributed over the country. Some of these women were elected because they voluntarily went into politics and tried for office. Others were drafted. Mrs. A. K. Gault of St. Peter, was appointed by a council of men after the man elected mayor refused to qualify. Mrs. Abbie Howe Forest, mayor of Thayer, Kansas, and five other women were nominated as candidates for city offices and elected over two other tickets. Thayer has a woman police judge and five women are members of the council. In explaining the situation Mrs. Forest says: "I might say that our election was due to the fact that in small towns men best fitted for public office often refuse to serve on the plea that they would 'hurt their business.' We had no business to hurt."

Mrs. Grace Miller, mayor of Jackson, Wyoming, has a council of five women helping her. Miss Pearl Williams, who was town marshal, has resigned because the place is said to be so orderly that no marshal is needed. Dr. Amy Kaukonen, mayor of Fairport, Ohio, who is twenty-three years old, is a graduate physician. She had authority to appoint a chief of police, a board of health and a chemist. She took all these powers to herself. In her capacity as chief of police she arrests "bootleggers." As the board of health she considers the menace of "bootleg" liquor to the health of the community, and as town chemist she analyzes the stuff. Finding it bad as a chemist she then warns against it as the board of health.

Miss Adams has found, in investigating the work of the women mayors, that they think in terms of municipal house-keeping. Men think of municipal problems in terms of engineering, she says, but the women officials consider the town merely an enlarged family to be educated, clothed, fed and kept orderly and in good health.

HOW MANY YEARS OF SCHOOL?

About the education of youth there always has been and perhaps always must be a largely speculative element. What studies "do good" and prepare best for future life are likely to be a matter of dispute to the end of time. That many of them miss fire is the general testimony of adults who look on their school life, but they are not likely to agree as to which ones were wasteful. Nevertheless a general faith in education persists. The person who does not believe in some degree of school is rare, if not non-existent. On the matter of how long school life should continue there is great diversity of opinion. In the last few years there has been a remarkable increase in college attendance. It is crowding and overtaxing institutions of higher learning all over America. The president of Brown university was recently quoted as saying "probably 25 per cent of the students now in American colleges would achieve greater success in living if they had never entered." This sounds like the old-fashioned view of business men in the days when colleges were less popular than now and self-made men were suspicious of education. With the pressure on the colleges it seems likely that some process of elimination will be devised with a view to reserving them for those to whom they will be most useful.

An idea somewhat similar to that expressed by the president of Brown is contained in a remark by L. C. Ward, superintendent of the schools of Fort Wayne in his discussion of proposals by Benjamin J. Burris, state superintendent of public instruction, for reorganization of the high school system of the state. Said Mr. Ward:

Based on the fact that not more than 50 per cent of school pupils are capable of handling high school work profitably to themselves and to society, a system should be inaugurated whereby this class of pupils can be graduated in two years.

The problem, of course, is to determine which pupils are "of limited capacity for intellectual development." A rough method of settling such questions in the past has been in "examinations", which have long been recognized as tests of memory rather than real capacity. In recent years there have been developing systems of psychological tests which appear to be inspiring an increasing amount of confidence. They are said to have been of great usefulness in the war emergency in determining fitness of men for various classes of service. It is doubtful, however, whether the problem can ever be fully solved. There will probably always be some to whom schooling is wastefully applied and others tragically excluded from opportunity by which they would greatly have profited.

A VIOLENT PROTEST

Why do fat people who want to reduce always take such a round-about way of attaining this end? If increased physical exercise will bring satisfactory results, as it is said it will, why don't these oversized persons find some sensible and useful kind of work in which such exercise may be found?

They seem to go to a good deal of trouble to get themselves into shape so that a smaller suit of clothes will fit them; but it is not by the kind of work which appeals to reasonable persons. Rolling around in your pajamas on the floor for a half hour every morning may be an effective way of getting rid of superfluous flesh; but neither to the persons in the next room, nor to those in the room immediately below does this process of weight reduction appeal as rational form of exercise.

Fat men are urged now to play croquet. The fact that they are to use only a mallet with a very short handle will make it necessary for them to stoop over, and thus exercise regions most affected by adipose tissue. The sport is said to be becoming more popular from day to day, and the results in decreased weight are unusually gratifying. But why not take to something useful? If exercise will do the business, why not a couple of washtubs with a week's washing done to a state of immaculate whiteness? Repeat this exercise every day for a month or two, and the results will be just as satisfying, as they will be from rolling insanely around the bed-room floor for a half hour in the morning. Probably more so.

What shall we say of an individual who finds that at all hazards he must reduce, and then hires someone to remove the dandelions from the front yard, and for himself takes to playing croquet. If it is stooping he needs, why not put such stooping exercise to use in plucking out the dandelions? That would add profit to pleasure. Reducers seem to resort to circuitous means to attain what they desire.

The Conspiracy of Dress

Women's clothing is of far more significance to the wearer's health than it is to the aesthetic tastes of the beholder. Not so long ago it was too terrible for description, with its grotesque sleeves, its skirts trailing in the mud, its multiplication of petticoats, its tightly laced corsets, its dangerous and debilitating heels. The escape from these monstrosities was not so much a change in style as an emancipation. It meant, not merely that woman's dress was to be as sensible as man's, but that it is to be more sensible. At a stroke it became healthful as well as beautiful. The change accompanied a wide excision into fields of sport and professional life heretofore almost forbidden to women.

If remains to be seen whether women will resist style changes which will inevitably infringe upon their present physical freedom. There is a good chance that they will. Hampering clothes stand for hampering traditions. It is impossible to believe that women who have known freedom from either—who have become, for the first time in history, real human beings instead of a mere embodiment of sex—will ever willingly go back to their old chains or skirts or laces.—NEW YORK GLOBE.

URIC ACID IN FACT AND FICTION

Medical science is a very young science, tho medical art is one of the most ancient arts of man. Medical theories have often proved wrong, and then again they have often proved right. That a mere medical theory should ever turn out to have been right, when medical science proves it to have been right, is a wonderful thing to contemplate, and I doubt that any other important human endeavor can compare with medicine in this respect, for generally art follows meekly after science instead of pointing and leading the way thru the outer darkness. In medicine it has ever been the art that has said "I believe," "I think," and "I hope," and the science that has said "Yes, I know now."

The theory that uric acid is a cause of disease has never won full recognition in actual practice. So far as medical science has advanced there has been no confirmation of the theory. On the contrary, the evidence obtained from actual tests made under carefully controlled conditions rather goes to prove that the cause of gout is not uric acid, altho it is a fact that so called "calculus" deposits in the tissues of the body and about the joints in gout and other diseases are derived from uric acid. These deposits, lumps or "tophi" are not chalk, but mostly monosodium urate.

There is even some doubt in the minds of physicians well informed in science, whether uric acid may be relied upon as an indicator for the measurement of the deficient metabolism or deficient oxidation in cases of gout and allied diseases.

Right now it is customary for some physicians to have chemical tests of the blood made to determine among other things, how much uric acid is present in the blood. When more than the normal amount (which is only about one tenth of a grain in each pint of blood in an adult on a purin free diet) is found, the conclusion is sometimes drawn that the individual has a tendency toward gouty troubles or joint diseases, but this conclusion is scarcely justified, because an increased amount of uric acid is found in the blood of many individuals who certainly have no such tendency.

When a man's blood contains more uric acid than is good for his health—and remember that in health the blood contains about 2 1/2 grains of uric acid—the excess merely indicates a deficient metabolism, a deficient oxidation process. No one can say off hand with any degree of certainty that a given individual has too much uric acid in his system or that he has too much acid in his system; any conjectures as to such matters, without actual chemical analysis of the blood, can only lead to blunders in treatment. Except in the hinterland, physicians no longer accuse patients of having "uric acid in the system" just because the patients present lesions or troubles of the joints. Every healthy person has gas in his stomach, uric acid in his blood and now and then a little blood in his eye, yet it is not at all necessary for him to diet, dope or distress himself over it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Enjoying the Smallpox

Would smallpox in a person who has a tendency to tuberculosis cause nephritis?—(B. D. S.)
Answer—Nephritis (Bright's disease) is a frequent complication or sequel of even mild smallpox in any case, as it is of scarlet fever, measles, and sometimes chickenpox. But why have smallpox with vaccination so cheap?

Iron and Vitamins

Please give me a list of foods which furnish vitamins, and also a list of foods which are rich in iron. I am a school teacher and wish to use these lists in my class.

Answer—I have a few miniature posters which will serve your purpose well, and I shall be glad to send one on vitamins and another on Food Iron to you as a teacher if you will provide the freight for them—a self addressed stamped envelope of standard size.

These items contain ample iron:
Wheat, bran, molasses, egg yolk, oatmeal, maple syrup, oysters, dried beans, dandelions, peanuts, green peas, lettuce, almonds, spinach, entire wheat (wheat as it comes from the threshers).

Miles by Blocks
I am striving to carry out your advice, two miles of oxygen on the hoof three times a day. Can you tell me how many miles in forty city blocks?—(Miss C. P.)

Answer—That varies widely according to the length of the block. Why not wear a pedometer and record your daily mileage, just for fun. A pedometer costs less than a popular novel and is an incentive to healthful activity.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

WELCOME MRS. OLESON

Mrs. Anna Dickle Oleson, far better known throughout the country as Mrs. Peter Oleson, is welcomed into the political arena as the first woman candidate for United States Senator from Minnesota, and she is being welcomed with a warmth from which, for the time being at least, politics is barred. Her success in Minnesota is accepted by editors generally as a "sign of the times" and her right to be the pioneer is agreed to by the Republicans and Democrats alike. Most of the newspapers, and her own party organs are no exception, look on her fight as almost impossible to win but they unite in pointing out that should Senator Kellogg and his friends make the slightest mistake they may very easily find themselves in hot water. Should she be elected it is agreed she is fully qualified for the position.

Because of the Republican strength in Minnesota the Washington STAR suggests that "Mrs. Oleson's nomination is likely to prove only a complement. The moral effect of such a complement, however, is to be reckoned as important. Mrs. Oleson's success in the Minnesota primaries is likely to encourage women to offer themselves for the Senate elsewhere, perhaps in states where the chances favor success at the polls. It is altogether probable that a woman will reach that body some day, perhaps soon." And, regardless of the majority against Mrs. Oleson in Minnesota, the Baltimore SUN, after reviewing the entire situation, suggests that "there is no telling what a lady will do when she makes up her mind that she wants something very much."

There also might be worse things than her success, the Philadelphia PUBLIC LEDGER believes, because "in any event Mrs. Oleson's election could weaken the Senate and quicken interest in its proceedings. That is worth while. We never have had a fair trial of what a woman can do in a legislative body. Maybe Mrs. Oleson could reform the Senate. Nobody else has been able to do it."

In the opinion of the New York TRIBUNE her victory "brings nearer the day when the wish of a skirt will be heard in the world's greatest deliberative assembly." Because her success also means that there will be other women candidates for many offices the New York POST declares that "the more good women run for office the better."

The Chicago HERALD says that in the campaign they neither expect special advantages, nor fear special disadvantages, for the sensible American electorate has not shown the slightest tendency toward drawing the sex line in voting." While the Democrats nominated Mrs. Oleson, it is pointed out by the Duluth HERALD that the Republicans also have a woman on their state ticket, Miss Grace F. Kaercher, for clerk of the Minnesota Supreme Court, so that neither party has a sex advantage and it is demonstrated that "women are free as men are to run for any office."

These are very interesting times in a very interesting period in the progress of mankind." Mrs. Oleson's record is such, the Springfield UNION says, that "even in the event of her election there need be no concern over her ability to outshine some of her colleagues in the Senate. She may be a woman and a Democrat but we fancy that nobody is going to scare her into voting against her convictions of what is wise or right. We have a soft place in our hearts for people of that kind, male or female, Republican or Democrat."

"The women in politics are setting an example of talking straight issues," the Milwaukee JOURNAL says. "So far there is doubtless more independence of party among them than among men. If they stick to this independence, they have a very useful contribution to make, especially in these days when Mr. Weeks and his kind are exalting party above everything else." Because this is so "the contest," the South Bend TRIBUNE believes, will certainly add to the already keen interest in the outcome of the November election." While Senator Kellogg's friends confidently expect his reelection the Ann Arbor TIMES suggests that "with her eyes on Washington and her foot on the accelerator, however, the Democratic candidate is sawing wood and it is not impossible that there will be another upset in Minnesota to go with those which have already made 1922 a year of political surprises."

The Cincinnati TIMES STAR departs from consideration of the effect on the nation should Mrs. Oleson be elected to discuss, somewhat, sarcastically, the effect on her family suggesting that "while invariably proud of his wife's achievements there may be moments when Peter, surnamed Oleson, will not be entirely jealous of the attentions lavished by his wife on her colleagues. They will get the lead from Mrs. Oleson has been getting these several years. He will not have to let the cat out every night per instructions, and with him there shall be no family curfew, if he should find something to do in Clocquet after dark. True, Mr. Oleson will be in the country, and his wife will have come to the Senate, but, at that, it may be he who will say 'Hurray.' Because 'Congress is not in high favor with the country' the Columbus STATE JOURNAL believes that 'the time is ripe for women to step into the political places, high and low, and lend their help in public matters. The interest of the nation is in having the most able and sensible women selected for the pioneer work that the suffrage experiment, as critics term it, may be, like other, successful.' Therefore, 'should she fail in election,' the St. Louis GLOBE DEMOCRAT says, 'she will have won a historic part in the history of the women's movement. Her total campaign expenditure of $500 puts her in an antithetical light as respects Mr. Newberry, who will not escape attention.'

It must not be lost sight of, the Allentown CALL says, that "there is in Minnesota a great independent vote and the strength of the women may prove a new factor." Pointing out that if chosen she "would be the first Democrat elected to the Senate from Minnesota since the Civil War," the Minneapolis TRIBUNE says her chances are slim but declares that "times surely have changed in this country" when it is recalled that each major party has a woman on its state ticket and adds "as late as ten, or even five years ago, political events of this kind seemed even much more remote than the facts of today show them to have been." The Danville REGISTER, however, declines to consider hers a lost cause, asserting that "her name and the fact that she is the wife of a Scandinavian will constitute a strong appeal to the large Norwegian and Swedish element in her state. In a word Senator Kellogg cannot afford to underestimate the strength of the opposition, if he values his prospects of reelection."

To date, according to the Buffalo NEWS "of 46 women who have entered contests for high political office, 16 have chosen congress as their goal, 25 are seeking places in state legislatures, and two seek to be governors of their states. The charge that women are holding back from politics can hardly be made with justification at this juncture."

The CANARD ENCHAINE has just entered on its seventh year. It is not easy to explain what the CANARD ENCHAINE is, because it is an entirely unique journal without cause and without instigators anywhere in the world.

It was started in 1915, about the time that the censorship began in earnest, when Georges Clemenceau was forced to change the name of his paper from the HOMME LIBRE (The Free Man) to the HOMME ENCHAINE (The Chained Man). No paper was allowed to print any war news except that coming from official sources, which was exceedingly meager, and of course no criticism of the management of the war was tolerated.

It was then that a group of witty writers decided to publish a paper that would stir up the very best of the censorship regulations, and indeed go further than that. They adopted the title CANARD ENCHAINE because "canard (duck) is slang for a 'faker' news story. They adopted as their symbol or trademark a duck wearing a broad grin and a heavy chain about its neck.

Throughout the war the paper appeared regularly and gave extraordinary reports of the tremendous success of the Allied arms, the astonishing capability of the generals, together with editorials of powerful patriotism. Never once, I understand, was the censorship able to put its finger on a single line, although the popularity of the paper among the troops was sufficient indication that they understood the tactics of the editors.

The paper continues to thrive, and as it carries no advertising it may be assumed that its contributors work for the fun of the thing. And they include some of the foremost humorists and cartoonists in France.

The CANARD never misses an opportunity to go the official propagandists on better. If the War Department raises an alarm about the manufacture of war materials in Germany, the CANARD appears with the astounding discovery that Minister Rathenau's electrical trust has just acquired at great expense factories near Vienna which manufacture throat-lozenges and shaving soap, "readily transformable into aeroplanes and submarines in case of war."

A recent editorial urged all patriots to take their bank-notes to the Banque de France. Reminding them that in response to the call of the government they had handed in torrents of gold in exchange for these notes, the CANARD says that the Government has just as much need of the money today.

Probably the Bank will be unable to give anything in exchange for these notes," the CANARD continues, "but what does that matter to a patriot? And who will say that Frenchmen are not patriots?"

THE CROPS OF EUROPE

London.—The Times says, according to information received from the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, the area under wheat in 16 countries in the Northern Hemisphere is estimated at 117,049,000 acres or 2.1 per cent less than in 1921. The area under rye in 11 countries is estimated at 24,421,000 acres, or an increase of 12.3 per cent on last year. The condition of the cereal crops on May 1 is given as average in Austria, Belgium, Italy and Poland, and as somewhat under the average in France.

It is estimated that the total production of winter wheat in the United States will be about 73,000,000 qrs. or very slightly less than last year, while the yield of rye is placed at 9,200,000 qrs. or 36.7 per cent more than in 1921.

MONOGAMY AS A FRANCHISE CONDITION

London.—A curious Bill has just been introduced into the French Chamber of Deputies according to the Paris correspondent of the Times. Its object is to make as a condition of French citizenship for natives of Senegal the formal renunciation of polygamy.

In Senegal the great majority of such natives are Muslims and they have been allowed to follow their own customs and laws according to the Koran, including polygamy, while exercising their right to vote in the colony.

Prohibition Handicap

In Egypt, 3700 years ago, an unknown sculptor made a small-scale model of a brewery, showing 12 men making beer from barley.

Dr. Flinders Petrie excavates the model near Cairo. He sends it to the museum of the University of Pennsylvania.

In view of the fact that man has been drinking alcoholic beverages for thousands of years, is it any wonder we find it so hard to make prohibition absolute in a few years?

Liquor feeds on itself—creates a craving. A drinker soon finds that alcohol has become a necessity. The biological process through thousands of years has given the world many inhabitants born a certain number of drinks below normal. To bridge that gap, raise themselves to normal you see them go to peculiar financial and criminal extremes.

THE WHY OF DEATH

Josiah White died in 1808 at Rockingham, Vermont. At death he had 386 direct descendants.

A check-up shows that at least 3000 direct descendants of Josiah have entered the world up to the present time.

This shows the wisdom of death in nature's scheme of things. Without death, earth would become so thickly populated that its whole surface would be a closely packed crowd of standing-up humans. We have to die, to make room for new-comers.

George W. Sheman, 83 years old, cuts out for himself the interesting job of walking 614 miles in 31 days, to join his old comrades at the reunion of Confederate veterans in Richmond, Virginia.

Pictures of this white-bearded patriarch look as if, in a pinch, he might cover the distance in two weeks.

Do you think you will be able to walk 20 miles a day for 31 successive days, when you are 83?

Could you do it now?

Our generation is a lot weaker, physically, than the one before us. The schedule points to a race of weaklings a half century hence.

LEARNING HEALTH
Chew Chew, a health clown, makes the rounds of New York City schools, spreading the gospel of fresh air, proper food and cleanliness.

With him is his little dog, Creamo, whose stunts include pawing his face as if washing when asked what he does in the morning.

The school-children are going wild about Chew Chew and Creamo. They are absorbing health facts, because the presentation is made in an interesting way. And they will remember the health clown and what he taught, in their old age.

Making school interesting is the greatest problem of education. People in this borsome civilization remember interesting things, forget the uninteresting.

Music is one of the four necessities of life. The other three are food, shelter, and clothing. So says Ubert Urquhart, taking to a convention of men who make music an industry.

This is true, admitting that life is on an emotional basis, which it is. Any period of history is mirrored in its popular music. Jazz, music came with a jazz period. It is passing out as the national temperament becomes normalized. If you want to keep an eye on "the trend of the times," watch the new music as it comes in. If we react to wailing tunes, it will mean that the public considers the outlook discouraging.

MODERN YOUTH
The house in which William Taylor Adams wrote many of his "Oliver Optic" books is being torn down at Dorchester, Mass., to make way for a garage.

This will open up the memory of many old-timers and recall the days when they "looked out" Rollo, Oliver Optic, G. A. Henty, Elsie Dinsmore and the Prudy Books from the Sunday school circulating library.

The times have changed. Youth in the old days read adventure based on the outdoor life of a world that was far from conquered commercially and geographically. Today youth finds most of its adventure in science.

Q. Who was known as "the old man eloquent" of the Senate? W. C. C.

A. Toward the end of his notable career of 37

What To Do To Keep Pesky Mosquitoes Away From You

Various Kinds of Oils Will Keep 'Em Away and Relieve the Stinging

When your friends from the South tell about the way they get up in the night to kill a mosquito, do not become alarmed and start on a midnight hunt at the slightest buzz-buzz in the air. Mosquitoes are the known carrier of but one disease, malaria, according to Dr. W. C. Felton, city physician, and Appleton is far north of the malaria belt. According to physicians and druggists, there is no danger of infection from the bites of mosquitoes although many people have infected the bites by scratching them with their finger nails.

According to George Merkle, deputy health officer, there is little that can be done to arrest the breeding of mosquitoes after the damp weather which Appleton has had. He suggests, however, that any pools of stagnant water be covered with a thin coat of crude oil in order to choke the breeding pests. Cesspools, of which there are few in Appleton, should also be treated with crude oil. There is great danger of starting a fire with this oil should a match be thrown in to it.

KEEP 'EM AWAY

There are several preparations made especially to keep mosquitoes away such as "skeeter skoot" and "skeeter dig" made of combinations of oils, the smell of which is offensive to the pests. Oil of citronella, oil of pennyroyal, camphorated oil, oil of lavender and others are used either alone or in combinations to keep 'em away, but the difficulty with these is that all though they are effective while they last, the odor soon evaporates.

Certain combinations, one of which is made of oil of citronella, carbolic acid, camphorated oil, and enough oil of tar to make a smoky odor and which is especially popular with trout fishers, do not evaporate easily. The oil of tar in the above combination tends to make the skin dark, but it is easily washed off.

All over Appleton for the past few nights, the old fashioned and evil smelling smudge has been very much in evidence. Those whose sense of smell is offended by the smudge have used the prepared sticks of "mosquito punk," while others burn the various kinds of household incense with as good results.

After you are bit and the bite begins to itch, there are several ways of alleviating the stinging. Alcohol, camphor, peroxide, iodine, amonia, or witch hazel will soothe the burning surface. A 10 per cent solution of amonia water applied to the skin will give immediate relief as will soda water, made from the common baking soda and water.

As soon as there is a wind, the mosquitoes will be blown to some other parts. It is a consoling fact that the life of the little pests cannot be more than 36 hours and that during that time they can bite comparatively few persons per capita without endangering their own lives in the extreme.

APPLETON VALLEY TEAM ALL SET FOR FOND DU LAC GAME

New Fielder Taken On; Bergerino Will Be At His Regular Position

Papermakers Expect to Maintain Their Winning Pace—Earl Howard Will Pitch Against Fountain City Team.

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Appleton at Fond du Lac.
Kaukauna at Menasha.
Oshkosh at Green Bay.

The Appleton Valley league baseball team will be off with a bang Sunday afternoon in its game at Fond du Lac with the Cardinals. Captain Rogers outfit has hit a good race in the last two games and with the breaks even should take the Fondy crew for another victory.

The team will leave about noon Sunday and will make the trip in automobiles. A large number of fans is expected to make the trip also. Luedtke, who went to the Three I league, has been replaced by a new outfielder named Sorenson, from Kenosha. Sorenson has been playing independent ball down there and is reported an excellent fielder and strong with the bat.

HOWARD ON MOUND
The old reliable Earl Howard, will be on the mound for the Appleton team and that in itself is a big problem for the Fountain City team.

The big pitcher has the necessary steam and control to save his mates in the pinches and he is fast becoming the most feared hurler in the Valley circuit.

Shott will back up the long pitcher and that means a good game as far as work behind the hitters is concerned. Britz will hold down his regular position at first and the fast and clever little Goodman will be on second.

Bergerino was missed in last Sunday's game but he will be working in his usual speedy form at Fond du Lac. The little snortstop may also have another bingle over the boards up his sleeve which he will spill at the opportune moment as is his habit. Duran protests third sack Sunday and there is not much danger that any balls sent out his way will amount to anything. "Doc" has a neat way of getting hold of the hot ones. He has also been hitting consistently this season.

Capt Rogers in the left outer garden has been right on the job since joining the Papermakers. Can know a lot about baseball and also knows just when to use the knowledge. It is said that he can pitch now and then if he has to.

Harvey Diebe will be in his center-field position as usual. Diebe is a good batter when he hits his stride. It is reported that Fond du Lac is trying to get Kinney of Green Bay to pitch but that throws no terror in to the hearts of the Appleton aggregation. They believe they have a better hurler than the touted Bavman and are not afraid of him when at bat either.

So the Appleton aggregation will travel south Sunday and it will be a mighty strong team or mighty tough luck that sends it back defeated.

BROWNS WALLOP INDIANS, 10-3

St. Louis Scores Five Tallies in Seventh Inning and Grabs Game

St. Louis—The Browns secured their hold on first place by one-half a game more on Friday, now being three games ahead of New York runner up, as a result of their victory over Cleveland, 10 to 3. The locals made five of their runs in the seventh inning when Tobin suffered an injured knee sliding home in the seventh and Shorten batted for him in the eighth, smashing the first ball pitched for a home run. Wood of Cleveland got four hits out of as many times to the plate, one being a four bagger. Score: St. Louis 10, Cleveland 3. 2 7 2. St. Louis 2, 0 1 0 1 0 5 1—10 12 1. Cleveland 0 2 0 0 0 0 0 1—3 7 2. Batteries: Percy and Ruel, Moore, Eckert and Perkins.

BEHNKE AND JENS PLAY AT NEENAH

The strong Behnke and Jens amateur baseball team will play the Neenah Arcades Sunday at Strangle Park. The game will be called at 2:30.

Out of the seven games played this season the Clothiers have dropped but two and lay claim to the title of one of the strongest amateur teams in this locality. The Neenah Arcades also claim a right to such a title. The Arcades have not lost any of their game this season.

Batteries will be Behnke and Jens Klundt and Geiger. Arcades, Niles and Melneki. The B. & J. team will play the Menasha Bright Spots a week from Sunday.

From Errand Boy To Star In 4 Years

By BILLY EVANS

Fame comes quickly in baseball. It slips away just as rapidly. For further information consult Babe Ruth.

Four years ago, Clarence Mueller was errand boy around the clubhouse of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Today no youngster has no brighter future in baseball than Mueller unless a serious injury to one of his legs plays havoc with his chances. His job as errand boy around the clubhouse gave the youngster a chance to mingle with the players, work out with them in morning practice and before the game.

Mueller is an ambitious youth. During his kid days Johnny Tobin of the St. Louis Browns was the youngster's idol. He has observed the play of Tobin for years and today he does a great many things on the ball field after the style of the Brown's star outfielder.

Mueller's cleverness in morning practice caught the eye of Manager Branch Rickey. Incidentally, Mueller informed Rickey about that time that he would like to get a chance to play professional ball.

Rickey signed Mueller to a St. Louis contract last season, but farmed him out to the Syracuse club of international League to gain experience.

It didn't take Mueller long to prove his ability. In the first 75 games he played for Syracuse he batted .362. His work caused Rickey to recall him. In the National League in 1921 he played 55 games and batted .352.

In short year Mueller from the position of clubhouse boy has jumped to a position of prominence in baseball. He is generally regarded as the most likely youngster that has broken into the National League in years.

In figuring his 1922 chances in the National League Rickey counted heavily on Mueller. An injury to one of his legs this spring put him out of the running. The club physician has advised that he play no more ball this season. Mueller is built on the lines of Honus Wagner. He is a left handed hitter, but throws right handed, and is very fast on the bases.

County League Teams Drawing Large Crowds

SUNDAY'S GAMES

Dale at Interlakes.
Hortonville at Black Creek.
Kimberly at Freedom.

Three good games are scheduled in the Outagamie County baseball league for Sunday afternoon. Appleton fans will center their interest on Interlakes park where Dale will provide opposition for the local mill team. The Interlakes have not been given the support they deserve thus far this season. The team plays creditable baseball and should attract larger crowds.

Dale defeated the Millmen in their first meeting. Hortonville will attempt to avenge its beating at the hands of Black Creek which it tackles the latter team on its home diamond. Freedom and Kimberly clash on the former's diamond.

Managers of all the teams report excellent crowds all during the season. Attendance has been much better than any of the managers anticipated. At Hortonville a crowd of 100 to 150 is expected. The population of the village has seen several of the games.

KAUKAUNA TO PLAY MID-WEEK GAMES

The Kaukauna Valley league baseball team is preparing to stage mid-week games each week for the balance of the season.

Saturday the Illinois Giants will be taken on at Kaukauna and a very interesting game is predicted.

Many other strong independent teams are booked for games at Kaukauna among them being the McCoy-Nolans of Milwaukee who will come up on July 12. This team has a state wide reputation as a strong outfit. Sheboygan will be played July 15. This is the team that downed the mighty Schmitt Schneider of Fond du Lac. Eddie Stump's Red Sox are among other teams that will be played.

Four Circuit clouts enabled Cincinnati to hang up a 9 to 5 victory over the Cubs. Earl Smith's Homer was the deciding factor in the Giants' defeat of Philadelphia, 6 to 4, while Sherdel blanked Pittsburgh 6 to 0 giving the St. Louis Cardinals their second straight victory over the pirates.

George Gibson, veteran backstop, resigned as manager of the Pirates after the game and Bill McKeehan, his assistant, was named as his successor.

Urbana, Ill.—Claude J. Rathgeb, one of Illinois' greatest athletes, will assist Coach Zuppkie with the football squad next season. Rathgeb will work with the ends, while Zuppkie will plan attacks and Lindgren will handle the line. Rathgeb was end on the Illinois team in 1903 '04 '05, played on the baseball team, and was a weight man in field events. After leaving school he was given a tryout with the Chicago Nationals. Later he coached football at Colorado college and in 1920 went to Texas A and M. His team was the only one which defeated Centre college in 1922.

EXPECT DAVEY TO BE WITH KAUKAUNA AGAINST MENASHA

Brautigan's Aggregation is All Ready For Tilt With Sylvester's Team

Brautigan's Kaukauna team is all set for the game at Menasha Sunday. Catcher Davey, who has gone to play with the Kansas City team, might be back to work with his former team mates Sunday, it is reported. The star Wisconsin university athlete has been playing a really wonderful game for Kaukauna and is he does not return for the Menasha game his absence will be keenly felt. Not only is Davey a good baseball man but he has the distinction of winning letters at the university in three branches of athletics. In case Davey does not appear, Stogeman will do the catching. Diedrich will be the mound performer against the Pails. The Kaukauna lineup will be the same as in the game of last week. Burns will cover first, Martie Lamers second and boss Brautigan will be at third. The Kaukauna fans expect a whole lot from Brauty and he usually lives up to expectations when his time at bat comes around. "Boots" Lamaers will play short and Flannagan Smith and Johnson will do the fly killing beyond.

SHERMAN PLACE CARDS PLAY KAUKAUNA FOX CLUB

The Sherman Place Cardinals are going to Kaukauna Sunday to meet the baseball team of the Kaukauna Fox club. The Cardinals are another strong amateur team of Appleton having won three out of four games this season. Burke and Collins will be the Cardinal battery.

OSHKOSH GOLFERS ARE PREPARING FOR SEASON

Oshkosh—The present season at the Oshkosh Country club promises to be one of the biggest in the history of the club. Interest is on the increase and the fine weather that has been prevalent thus far has aided greatly. The course is in better condition than ever due to the precautions taken early in the season. The usual round of festivities was somewhat dampened by the construction of the Fond du Lac road.

The road is now in condition now ever and the regular Saturday evening dance will be resumed next Saturday night and will continue until the close of the season. The mid-week and Saturday luncheons were not discontinued during the time the road was being put in condition and they too will continue during the remainder of the season.

HOW TO PLAY BASEBALL

Study Batter and Don't Fear Errors

By Rogers Hornsby

Playing second base is just like any other part of the game—you must study the situation in front of you. In the first place you must become acquainted with the batter who is at the plate. Your pitcher is going to pitch to his weakness. You should know that, and play accordingly.

There is no particular legal spot locating the territory for the second baseman. Bear this point in mind. Move around.

There will be the batter who is inclined to hit toward right field. For him you must play over toward the first baseman. There is another who has a tendency to hit toward left field and over second base. For this one you must shift in the direction of second base.

MOVE IN FOR BUNT

Miller Huggins had an excellent way of playing second base. He favored the edge of the grass and a spot rather close to second base. Eddie Collins and Johnny Evers also play like that, unless, of course, they have a batter who hits in the direction of right field.

There is the batter who bunts frequently. He is the one who gives the second baseman lots of work. You cannot give him much space and you have to move in from a deep field.

The second baseman must learn speed and accuracy. A fraction of a second lost because of some unnecessary move often results in getting the worst of the decision. Slowness is fatal in attempting double plays.

RISK ERRORS

Learn to throw underhand. On certain plays it is the only method that can be used if you are to successfully complete the play.

Try for every ball. It is no sin to make errors. The best players make lots of them.

Never be discouraged after making an error. Go after the next ball hit in your direction determined to wipe out the previous mistake. Be aggressive, wide awake and always hustle.

FOURTH WARDERS BEAT SIXTH WARD IN TWILIGHT RACE

Game Postponed From Tuesday Evening Played Friday—Fourth in 2nd Place

The Fourth ward Twilight league baseball team came out on top in a spectacular seven inning set to with the Sixth ward team Friday evening at the Columbus school diamond. The game ran along nip and tuck until the last frame when the winning runs were registered. Each team scored two runs in the first two innings and then the count stood until the last frame.

In the "hooky" seventh the Sixth scored two tallies and the Fourth came away for twice that many, thereby clinching the contest.

Two single hand catches out in right field by Elias of the Sixth ward outfit were the features of the affair. The Fourth ward team now is in second place in the league's standings having won two out of three games. The Second and Fifth ward teams did not play Friday evening.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The oath, taken as he held in his arms the body of his dearest friend PHILIPPE DE VILAMORIN, sent ANDRE LOUIS MOREAU, young lawyer of Gavrilac, to Rennes and thence to Nantes where his fervid speeches aroused to action the citizens who were chafing under the oppression of the nobility. Philippe had been tricked into a duel and brutally murdered because the Marquis de la Tour d'Azyr feared the "dangerous" act of eloquence which the idealistic divinity student possessed. Andre-Louis swore to carry on the cause of his friend and revenge himself on the Marquis for Philippe's death and because the prestigious noble had sued for the hand of the beautiful ALINE DE KERCADON, niece of the Marquis.

LORD OF GAVRILLAC, who was popularly believed to be the father of Andre-Louis.

Returning from Nantes, Andre-Louis is met on the outskirts of Gavrilac by Aline, who warns him that soldiers are waiting in the town to arrest him for sedition.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"My dear Aline! That I should have been the cause of so much concern and trouble!" exclaimed Andre with mocking nonchalance.

"Do you realize that they have come to arrest you?" she asked him with increasing impatience. "You are wanted for sedition, and upon a warrant from M. de Lesdigueres."

"Sedition?" quoth he, and his thoughts flew to that business at Nantes. It was impossible that they could have heard news of it in a Rennes and acted upon it in so short a time.

"Yes, sedition. The sedition of that wicked speech of yours at Rennes on Wednesday."

"You must not go into Gavrilac," she told him, "and you must get

"Alone, on one condition only"

"And that?"

"That you swear to me you will never seek the aid of M. de La Tour d'Azyr on my behalf."

"Since you insist, and as time presses, I consent."

Obviously he swung down from his horse, and surrendered the reins to her.

She was gone, and he stood listening to the receding clopper clopper of hoofs until it grew faint in the distance.

BOOK II THE BUSKIN CHAPTER I

Coming presently upon the Redon road, Andre-Louis, obeying instinct rather than reason, turned his face to the south, and plodded wearily and mechanically toward it. He had no clear idea whether he was going, or of whether he should go. All that mattered at the moment was to put as great a distance as possible between Gavrilac and himself.

Midway across the vast common to the north of Guenec he came to a tall, beyond loomed a tall building, which he knew to be an open barn, standing on the edge of a long stretch of meadowland. It was as big as a house, yet consisted of no more than a roof carried upon half a dozen tall brick pillars. But densely packed under that roof was a great stack of hay that promised a warm couch on so cold a night. He cleared a trough for his body, and lying down in it, covered himself to the neck with the hay he had removed. Within five minutes he was soundly asleep.

When next he awakened, the sun was already high in the heavens. Then to his awakening senses came a drone of voices close at hand, to which at first he paid little heed.

"Oh, mon Dieu, Leandre! let us separate at once. If it should be my father..."

"You must not go into Gavrilac," she told him, "and you must get emerged a lean, slight man in a rusty cloak and a three-cornered hat worn well down over his nose so as to shade his face. "Monsieur," said he, with the air of a conspirator, "the time for action has arrived, and so has the Marquis. That is why."

"Tell me, tell me! Speak!" Clumene implored him, holding out her hands in a supplication no man of sensibility could have resisted. And then on the instant she caught her breath on a faint scream. "My father!" she exclaimed, turning distractedly from one to the other of these two. "He is coming! We are lost!"

CALLS ON MOSLEMS TO CEASE QUARREL

By Associated Press
Constantinople — A manifesto has been issued to the Moslem faithful by the Islamic religious department exhorting them to banish feelings of mutual hatred and rancor and to be united in religion and faith.

The manifesto says: "In olden times when we were united and attached to religion, we dominated over vast territories in three continents and these territories we kept for many centuries thanks to our high qualities."

"The duty which is now incumbent upon all the faithful is to accomplish the duties imposed by our holy religion and to seek pardon before Allah in order to preserve the rest of our territories."

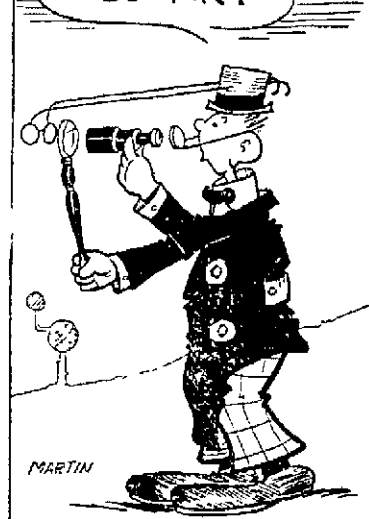

"Let us give up alcoholic drink and do nothing which our religion forbids us to do. Let us try and love one another and preserve no rancor towards anyone."

down from your horse, and let me take it. I shall return it to the Breton Arms."

"You haven't considered what will happen to you if you do such a thing."

"What do I care for law? Do you imagine that the law will presume to touch me?"

"Of course there is that. You are sheltered by one of the abuses I complained of at Rennes. I was forgetting."

"Complain of it as much as you please, but meanwhile profit by it. Come, Andre, do as I tell you. Get down from your horse." And then as he still hesitated, she stretched out and caught him by the arm. Her voice was vibrant with earnestness.

"Andre, you don't realize how serious is your position. You must go away at once, and be completely lost until my uncle can bring influence to bear to obtain your pardon."

"That will be a long time, then," said Andre-Louis. "M. de Kercadiou has never cultivated friends at court."

"There is M. de La Tour d'Azyr," she reminded him to his astonishment.

"That man?" he cried, and then he laughed.

"Why, yes. You see, I have not yet said that I will be Marquis de La Tour d'Azyr. It is a position that has its advantages. One of them is that it ensures a suitor's complete obedience."

"So, so. I see the crooked logic of your mind. You might go so far as to say to him, 'Refuse me this and I shall refuse to be your marriage partner.' You would go so far as that?"

"At need, I might."

"And do you not see the converse implication? Do you not see that your hands would then be tied, that you would be wanting in honor if afterwards you refused him? And do you think that I would consent to anything that could so tie your hands? Do you think I want to see you damned, Aline?"

Her hand fell away from his arm. "Oh, you are mad!" she exclaimed, quite out of patience.

"Possibly. But I like my madness. There is a thrill in it unknown to such sanity as yours. By your leave, Aline, I think I will ride on to Gavrilac."

And upon this a man's voice broke in, calm and reassuring.

"No, no Clumene, you are mistaken. There is no one coming. We are quite safe. By do you start at shadows?"

More was not needed to reassure Andre-Louis. He had overheard enough to know that this was but the case of a pair of lovers who, with love to fear of life, were not after the manner of their kind—more timid at heart than he.

In the space of a crooked meadow between the barn and the hedge stood a man and a woman, both young. The man was a well-set-up, comely fellow, with a fine head of chestnut hair, tied in a queue by a broad bow of black satin. He was dressed with certain tawdry attempts at ostentatious embellishments which did not prepossess one at first glance in his favor.

The child—she was not more than that, perhaps twenty at the most—possessed, in addition to the allurements of face and shape that went very near perfection, a sparkling vivacity and grace of movement the like of which Andre-Louis did not remember ever before to have held assembled in one person.

He could not have told you why, but he was conscious that it attracted him to find her so intimate with this pretty young fellow, who was partly clad, as it appeared, in the cast-offs of a nobleman. He could not guess her station, but the speech that reached him was cultured in tone and word. He strained to listen.

"That is what my heart desires, Leandre, but I am beset by fears lest your stratagem should be too late. I am to marry this horrible Marquis of Shruifdell this very day. He arrives by noon. He comes to sign the contract—to make me the Marchioness of Shruifdell. Oh! It was a cry of pain from the tender young heart. 'Save me, Leandre. Save me! You are my only hope.'"

So her father was marrying her to a marquis! That implied birth on her side. And yet she was content to pair off with this dull young adventurer in the tarnished livery!

"It shall never be!" M. Leandre was storming passionately. "Never! I swear it!" And he shook his puny fist at the blue vault of heaven. Ajax defying Jupiter. "Ah, but here comes our subtle friend. He will bring us news, I know."

Andre-Louis looked also in the direction of the gap. Through it

MATERNITY CLUB TEACHES MOTHERS IN THEIR DUTIES

Proper Prenatal Care Necessary to Safeguard Life of Mother and Child

By Marian Hale
In Manhattan in 1921 one mother died for every 205 babies born.
One out of every 28 babies born died under one month of age.
But when proper care was given the mother under the supervision of the Maternity Center Association only one mother died for every 500 born!
Only one out of every 51 babies died under one month of age.
And one out of every 42 babies was born dead.
Miss Nancy E. Cadmus, general director of this Maternity Center Association, today gives this advice to prospective mothers, based on her experience.

BY NANCY E. CADMUS
General Director, Maternity Center Association, New York.

Do you know that more than 23,000 mothers die every year in the United States from causes due to childbirth?

That 100,000 babies are born dead each year and that another 100,000 die before they are a month old, from causes that might have been prevented by correct prenatal care.

That figures show there are 16 countries with a lower death rate than the United States?

That figures for New York city show the death rate this year has an increase of 13 deaths a thousand over last year?

I quote these figures not to alarm the prospective mother, but to impress upon the world in general the necessity of inaugurating some scientific program to cut down the alarming mother and baby death rate in the United States.

CARE BEFORE BIRTH

To produce a sturdier race of Americans it is necessary for us to give more thought and consideration to the mother and child.

With that end in view, the Maternity Center Association, with headquarters in New York city, is teaching the public the vital importance of adequate maternity care and securing in co-operation with all existing agencies such care for prospective mothers.

In the tenement houses and middle-class residences in the association's field it is estimated 4000 babies will be born in 1922.

The association proposes to give the last word in complete maternity care to every mother. Results will be analyzed and given to the whole country.

Physicians and nurses know through their experiences just what sort of care a mother should have, and the care a mother receives before and during her confinement determines to a large extent the health of her child.

RULES FOR MOTHER

Here are some bits of general advice we give:

Remember motherhood is natural and normal. If you do as the doctor and nurse ask you to you have no reason to worry. So put yourself in the hands of a good physician, and follow his instructions.

Eat as much food as you are used to. Do not eat what you know gives indigestion. Do not eat too much at any one meal.

Drink eight glasses of water every day.

Drink all the milk you can.

Do not drink any alcoholic drinks.

Eat meat, meat-soup or eggs and drink tea or coffee only once a day.

Sleep at least eight hours a night with the windows open.

DO REGULAR HOUSEWORK

Do your regular housework, but lie down several times a day if for only five minutes.

If possible take a walk out of doors. Fresh air is most beneficial to you and to your baby.

If you cannot get out keep the windows open while you work indoors.

Do not do any heavy work.

Bathe every day with warm, but not hot, water. But do not get into the tub for the two months preceding the birth of the child.

Wear clothes that hang from the shoulder. Eliminate any tight waistband or tight garters.

Father and mothers should remember that a cheerful mind is of the greatest value.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

Today's word is HEGEMONY.

It's pronounced—variously, he-jem-oni, with accent on the second syllable; he-jem-oni, with accent on the first syllable; and he-jem-oni, also with accent on the first syllable.

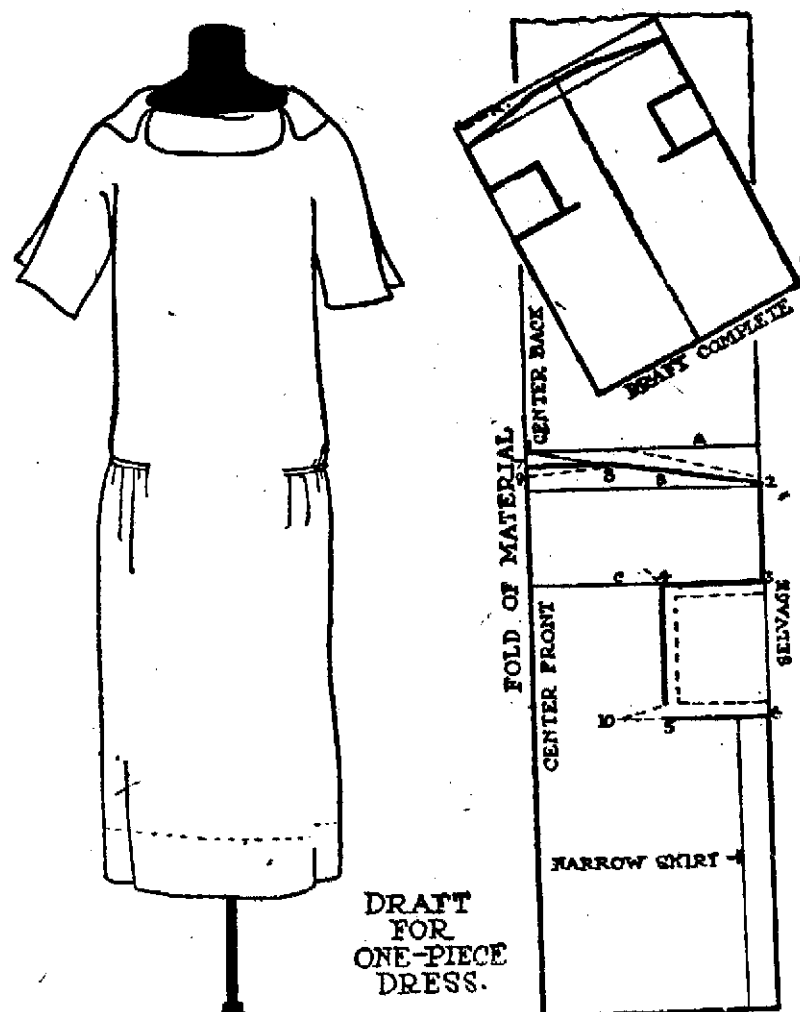

It means—leadership, preponderant influence or authority, and usually is applied to the relationship of a government or state to its neighbors.

It comes from—a Greek root, meaning "to go before."

It's used like this—"To a considerable extent Prussian hegemony in Germany has disappeared as a result of the war."

MAKING BLOCK PATTERN FOR ONE-PIECE KIMONO DRESS

THREE UNFINISHED STAGES. THE DRAFT MARKED FOR CUTTING. THE DRAFT READY TO CUT FOR A PATTERN, AND THE BLOCK BASTED FOR A FITTING.

BY MARJORIE KINNEY

Supervisor of Clothing, School of Household Science and Art, Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y.

(This is the second of a series of six articles on dressmaking by Miss Kinney. Today she explains the cutting of the "block" patterns on which you model your frocks.)

This is the simplest draft by which you can make a "block" pattern for a one-piece kimono dress. A "block" is a foundation upon which many dresses can be designed.

Draft this pattern on cheap unbleached muslin. Cut, pin up seams exactly on heavy lines and carefully fit. Pin in and pencil all alterations. Lay your muslin pattern out flat and from it cut a corrected pattern in paper. This should be so accurate you will need few fittings on dresses modeled from this block. Take two and one-half yards muslin for the average figure. Mark center, end to end, with a pencil line, clearly defining your center front and center back.

Fold on this line, selvage to selvage.

Draw a line exactly in center from fold, point 1, to selvage (line A).

Measure down from point 1 three inches on fold.

Draw light line from this point to selvage (line B).

Connect point 1 with selvage end of line B to point 2. (This is your shoulder seam.)

Measure on selvage width of sleeve desired, about seven inches, to point 3.

Draw light line (line C) from 3 to fold.

Measure from fold on this line one-quarter of desired bust measure, point 4. (Use a bust measure about six inches larger than your actual measurement, for example—thirty-six-inch bust plus six inches equals 42 inches.)

Connect 3 and 4.

Measure down from 4 under arm measure desired, point 5 (average, 11 inches for a long-waisted dress).

Household Hints

THREE-PIECE

Fashion authorities are predicting the three-piece costume will be the smart thing for the coming winter. These are embroidered and beaded and elaborately fur-trimmed.

PRINTED FABRIC

Printed fabrics are very popular now. Georgettes with very large figures are made up into charming afternoon and dinner frocks, with irregular hems and wide satin girdles.

DRAPERIES

Wing-like draperies are featured on many of the lace and thin material frocks. They never end at the hem lines, always above or below.

METAL CLOTH

Metal cloth wraps are brilliant indications of a glittering year. They come in bright gold or bright silver, with luxurious fur collars and gorgeous linings. Often a bit of embroidery or brocade is added.

THE SHAWL

The silken shawl, heavily fringed and embroidered, is the popular wrap for evening, while the crepe or shantung wrap does duty with the lingerie or afternoon frock.

Adventures Of The Twins

Three Questions

The Mountain That Wasn't There acted in the silliest fashion.

First it stood on its head, then after awhile, tiring of that, it spun around dizzily for several minutes. When it had righted itself it stayed put for a few minutes, then suddenly, without any warning, it whizzed by as though it were on rollers and stood behind the Twins.

"Why, we're past it," laughed Nancy. "We must be in the Kingdom of the Diddyevers at last. The Fairy Queen said it was just beyond the Seven Mountains and this is the seventh."

"But look!" pointed Nick.

The mountain had made a crazy circle and swung around in front of them again. Then it seemed to disappear altogether.

"I wish the old thing would stay away for good," grumbled Nick.

"Where do you suppose it's gone?" Nancy pointed to a tiny speck in the distance. "There it is," she said.

"Gee!" said Nick, suddenly. "When this old mountain can move around the way it does how do we know we were walking all that time in the right direction? We may be 10 miles too far to the right or 10 to the left. There isn't any path to guide us here."

At that the mountain made a quick swoop right toward them, like a person on roller skates, or like an enormous express train. It looked as though the Twins would be flattened out in another minute like two little pancakes, but it stopped right in front of their noses, not a yard away.

"Are you frightened?" asked the mountain suddenly.

"No, if you mean us," answered Nick, bravely.

"Are you mad?" asked the mountain.

"No."

"What are you?"

"Puzzled!" answered the little boy. "We think you've lost your wits."

"That's the answer," said the mountain kindly. "Only I haven't lost my wits. I'm wisest of all. I'm here to try people's patience and you didn't lose yours at all. Here's the path. You may go safely over, children."

YOUR JOB

BY ELIZABETH ARNOLD

You want a job that offers a future. All right. The old saying still holds good—"All roads lead to success." The successful man or woman however, is usually doing something that he or she is vitally interested in. Know your job and study what it leads to. Know your product, your industry, your employer, your customer and your public. Learn your own short comings. Make your mistakes pay you a dividend. Few people come out on top who have not at some time mustered details. Never give a job up without knowing why you do not want to stick. Make it your business to find out what you want to do, what you are fitted to do and then do it with all your might. It is the worker, not the work, that is exceptional.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You do not ask a friend for a letter of introduction to another. That is left to the impulses of the friend.

Such a letter should not be given to anyone whom the writer does not hold in the highest esteem and is willing to vouch for.

A note of introduction should be short and strictly confined to naming and presenting the person for whom it is written.

See Tomas' Want Ad under Business Opportunities.

OUR FIRST YEAR

Chapter 75 — Here is a Solution

By a Bride

"Peggy! You don't want to earn your living on the stage. Nor anywhere else," said Mrs. Herrod. "Dear! In your secret heart you want to let Jack have his way."

"I admit I do!" My tears washed the powder from my nose.

"Then admit it to Jack, not to me."

"I won't!" I replied. "I want to—but I won't! That's how the modern girl feels about lots of her emotions, Mrs. Herrod."

"In marriage she wishes to be free only as a man is free. I don't mean that she wants freedom for the sake of liberty and license."

"She reasons this way: When you depend upon anyone, when a girl depends entirely upon a man for bread as well as love she is not free."

"As long as a girl is ruled by love she is not free. She's a slave to somebody, married or single."

"To stand up shoulder to shoulder, to give and take equally, to swap fair in love, honor for honor, truth for truth—that is what the modern girl demands."

"That is what Jack and I have been striving for and I thought we were working successfully. Up to yesterday, no matter what the strain, I have stuck to my principles, and expected I could be married and independent."

"But marriage has worked some charm, a mysterious change? You wish to obey your man, in the ancient way?"

"Honestly, I don't know about that. But I am convinced Jack likes me best when I'm helpless."

There is no difference in cost, but a great deal in satisfaction, between a "common, ordinary house," and one with the touch of individuality that makes it the home you are proud to own.

Here is compactness in plan, economy in construction, attractiveness in design combined in such a way that it is doubtful whether you can find a more ideal arrangement in a small home.

This story and a half house, which really is semi-bungalow in type, provides four primary rooms and bath on the first floor. On the second floor there is space to finish off two more rooms if you desire.

The homelike effect of the exterior is furthered by the double window in front and the handsome colonial entrance with its broad steps and latticed porch. The low, comfortable lines of the exterior naturally lead you to expect an inviting interior.

There is no more popular or satisfactory arrangement of living and dining room than the one offered. The wide cased opening between the two rooms is a decorative feature. It also increases the apparent size of both rooms.

The kitchen is planned to economize steps and speed up housework. The icebox in the kitchen is provided with a door so it can be freed from the outside.

The first floor bedroom and bath are as private as can be. The bedroom has a good closet and windows on two sides. The bath has a built in medicine cabinet and linen closet adjoining. Each bedroom on the second floor is supplied with wash bowl and medicine cabinet above. Windows on both sides cross ventilate these rooms. The large closet and storage space is a very desirable feature.

This house can be built on a 35-foot lot and should be reasonable to erect due to its compact plan and simple roof. The house is planned for a frame structure, stucco base, shingle roof, stucco chimney with cement cap and sided exterior. In localities where restrictions demand fire resisting materials the exterior of the house can be changed.
